Assessment – Beyond Certification, Graduation and Employment Rates

With today's focus on student achievement outcomes, this session will bring forward new ideas on what to measure and how – outside of the licensure and employment rate boxes. Perspectives from different interest groups will be presented, including assessment coordinators, education administrators, accrediting agencies and program representatives.

Upon completion of this program, participants will:

- Understand the functions and benefits of qualitative assessment and data as part of an accreditation review.
- Effectively conduct training in the uses and evaluation of qualitative assessment data and prepare staff and volunteers in the use of professional judgment in the accreditation review process.
- Share strategies and tools used in best practices for qualitative assessment in accreditation reviews.
